At 38 weeks I was supposed to go to the hospital. My water broke at 11:30pm and the baby began at 11:35pm. I had 6 hours to get my toddler ready and get to the hospital and back. I am still so in shock. I have never been more terrified. But I pushed until I was a yard away from the doctor I was due to see! Then, I sat on the bathroom floor in my son's room, two hours after his birth, as the baby began to punch a hole through his insides. He has a hole on his head where I delivered his feet. He has tubes up and down his entire belly from having to be resuscitated. He cannot bond with his brother, who is still in the NICU. He needs a few more days to mend and thrive. As I sit here holding my baby, I can't help but be so blessed. He is sleeping the sleep of the angels. Right now, I just want to hold my baby, stop crying, and breathe. I am celebrating life in the most traditional sense. As I lay here holding my newborn, I feel like it is a miracle that he is here and with me. I feel like he is my angel! And I don't want him to leave ever! So here we are...my husband and I. I cry out for my mommy, and just hope that life has a way of taking my worst fears and spinning them into real circumstances. I am living proof that miracles can and do happen, even though nobody believes it.Q: Comparing columns based on a condition I have a table that has two columns (name & description).
