Thank you!This invention relates to a radiation image storage panel which is used for a recording apparatus for recording a radiation image, particularly a radiation image recording and reproducing system using stimuable phosphor. For obtaining a radiation image, there has heretofore been used a radiographic method utilizing a combination of a radiation image conversion panel comprising a stimuable phosphor and a radiation image recording and reproducing system. This method comprises the steps of causing a stimuable phosphor of the panel to absorb radiation energy having passed through an object or having radiated from an object; sequentially exciting the phosphor with an electromagnetic wave such as visible light or infrared rays (hereinafter referred to as x-ray stimulating rays) to release the radiation energy stored in the phosphor as light emission (stimulated emission); photoelectrically detecting the emitted light to obtain electric signals; and reproducing the radiation image of the object as a visible image from the electric signals. The radiation image conversion panel, also referred to as stimuable phosphor sheet, generally comprises a support and a phosphor layer provided thereon.

The clamp has two arms extending from a central body portion and a screw that is inserted through the body portion to mount the clamp to the chassis of the electronic device.
