If I do the following: INSERT INTO mytable (MyColName) VALUES (NULL) The column will be named MyColName. Is there a way to get this at runtime, so I can get rid of the brackets? It would be similar to set @colname = 'MyColName' in the following: INSERT INTO mytable (MyColName) VALUES (@colname) A: You can use dynamic SQL: CREATE TABLE #tbl(id int) DECLARE @colname varchar(20) SET @colname =

-The ultimate tool to automate the process of 'emotional avatar' display on MSN. Allows you to have customizable 'tool tip' pop up on top of your emoticons which shows 'labels' like 'happy', 'sad' and

'blush'. -'GIFs' which you can use to express yourself during chat sessions with your friends. -You can have a wide range of different emoticons and avatars to choose from. -Choose your emoticon labels and emote through a simple wizard. -Free trial version included. -Incorporate the emoticons into conversations in a blink of an eye. -Easily incorporate the emoticons into the MSN toolbar without modifying the fonts. Here's my thoughts... Well its good to have emotions on MSN. The important thing here is that we all have emotions. Most of the time we hide it and don't even realize we are having a certain emotion. Emotions serve a purpose. I like the avatars and tool tips. This is all well and good until the avatars and tool tips begin to appear all over the screen. Even more important is that it does not affect the look and feel of your email and instant messages. This is what I believe is important here. Emotions MSN Display Pictures Full Crack offers you this option and are customizable. This means that you can not only choose different colors for the tool tips but you can also make them bigger, smaller, or even change the color of the background. The tool tips themselves may also be customized to the same degree. In short I think you should give it a try. Emotions MSN Display Pictures Cracked Accounts is a great tool to have and offers a lot of features. Personally I think the price is right and the features are worth the money. Emotions MSN Display Pictures Serial Key is a tool for MSN messages which is very simple to install and use. The tool is able to display images (GIFs) which you can use to express yourself. The images are customizable and you can use your own tool tips or your own emoticons. Emotions MSN Display Pictures Download With Full Crack offers a wide range of emoticons and avatars, each with different labels and colors, to choose from. The tool offers you the ability to choose your own emoticons and tool tips. This means that you can modify everything from the font size to the tool 2edc1e01e8
